

THE MUSIC HAVEN AT THE BOTTOM OF YOUR GARDEN

Amadeus Acoustic Solutions have provided bespoke, modular soundproof music spaces to schools, conservatoires, professionals and hobbyists for over 15 years and you too could have a garden music studio haven of your very own. We find out what makes Amadeus different from other garden room installers

Unlike many garden rooms, Amadeus Acoustic Solutions' spaces are built from the acoustics out. As highly experienced experts, they know that addressing a room's sound characteristics retrospectively rarely delivers the high-level sound quality and sound proofing that a musician desires from a playing environment. Amadeus consider your practising and producing requirements long before design begins. Once there is a strong understanding of what you truly need, they design your space based around the desired acoustics using the best quality, highest performing materials available. And they make it look good! One of the major benefits of Amadeus' garden music studios is their multi-functionality.

While music making may be your motivation, a beautifully built garden room suddenly adds much needed space to your home without the inconvenience of renovation or room repurposing. Younger kids can play noisily without giving you a headache, teenagers can use it as refuge to play Call of Duty at top volume and, when you get the chance to commandeer it, you can turn it into the perfect retreat for a quiet cup of coffee and that novel you keep meaning to finish.
